Succession Planning: Considerations for Transitioning Your Practice

The CPD session will be delivered by Foluke Laosebikan (FLK Law Firm), Dean Martin Phillipson (College of Law), and Laurie Johnson (getting CONNECTED coaching & consulting inc.).

When lawyers look toward retirement there are many things they consider leading up to their departure from practice. Who will continue servicing my clients? How do I find the right person? What will I do to make retirement a reality? These are just some of the many questions that may arise during the planning process.

The panel discussion will dive into important considerations when looking to transition out of your practice and into retirement. Attendees will hear about the lived experience of a lawyer successfully recruited and retained into a firm in a rural community, and the details of that transition. Next, the Dean of the College of Law will discuss the recruitment of articling students, what they are looking for, and the access to justice issues of not having a succession plan in place. Finally, participants will learn best practices for determining whether a candidate has the attributes needed to fit your firm and community, potential considerations for billing after the transition, and tips for retirement planning from an executive coach and human resources professional. An opportunity for questions will follow.

Come prepared for an interactive discussion about the topic of succession planning. Don't miss out on this Select Dinner and informative CPD session!
