

Barry Wilcox

I was born and raised in Prince Albert. I have been married for 26 years and have 3 adult children.

I was admitted to the Law Society of Saskatchewan in 1981. I have been involved in numerous firms over the years as they evolved and I am currently a partner in Novus Law Group (Wilcox, Holash, McCullagh) in Prince Albert.

As well, I am a Certified Mediator from the Colorado Institute of Alternative Dispute Resolution.

Throughout my career, I have been involved in the general practice of law, however over the past 25 years, I have practiced primarily finance, corporate & commercial law.

I have been a Commissioner of the Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission since 2011 and was just recently appointed the Deputy Chief Commissioner.

Over the years I have been involved in many community causes. I have been heavily involved in Alpine ski racing and enjoy the occasional round of golf.

I am a long-standing member of the bar and I'm at a stage of my career now when I feel that I would like to give something back to the profession. This seems like a very opportune way to do that.
