

Legal Basics for Boards: What Every Lawyer Needs to Know

Join us for this in-depth seminar that covers the information you need to know to serve as a director sitting on a board. With input from some of Saskatchewan's experienced directors and lawyers alike, you will be sure to learn the basics. This program will be interesting for both lawyers and non-lawyers, with a focus on the major areas of directorship as well as an engaging interactive session.

This seminar is dedicated to a thorough discussion of the responsibilities and best practices of being a board director. With such a high level of responsibility required from directors today this overview will prove beneficial for both new and experienced board members.

The day will begin with a presentation on the basics of board work, touching on subjects such as the division of power between directors and shareholders as well as some possible conflicts of interest. The morning will continue with a look into board meeting procedures and a review of the use of meeting minutes. Before noon, attendees will hear from an accounting expert who will speak to financial statements and financial literacy in a board setting.

After lunch, participants will work through potential real world scenarios in round table groups with a facilitated review to follow. Next, a panel discussion will dive into different areas of director liability and how you can be protected. The day will wrap up with a presentation on how to be successful as a board member and what makes a good director from management's perspective.

Don't miss out on the exciting and informative seminar! Register early to secure your spot.
